Acting South Korean Chief Charts Democratic Course

Huh Promises End To U.S. Aid Waste, Reforms

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A new, tough-minded acting president turned Thursday to the task of setting South Korea on a democratic course after weeks of bloody rioting by which this nation's younger generation ended the 12-year-old authoritarian regime of President Syngman Rhee.

One of the first public statements of Acting President Huh Chung was aimed at what he called waste and mismanagement in the U.S. Korean aid program. Simultaneously, the United States held up approval of new economic aid until South Korea gets back to normal and some new conditions are met.

Aid Corruption Charged

One of the factors contributing to last week's "Bloody Tuesday," climactic moment of the riotous demonstrations in the wake of the March 15 elections, was a charge of corruption in use of U. S. aid funds. Rhee's critics said some of the 200 million dollars a year of U.S. aid went to help Rhee supporters.

Huh, 64, a scholarly independent with a widespread reputation for honesty, assumed full executive as Rhee announced his resignation. He had the full support of the National Assembly and the army, still enforcing martial law in the capital.

University students who led the rebellion began exhorting the population to return to its normal way of life.

Rhee, 85, patriarchal founder of the republic, remained in his hillside mansion temporarily. He is expected to move soon into his modest old home, Pear Blossom Villa, on a rocky slope of eastern Seoul. The National Assembly's acceptance of his resignation was a formality and foregone conclusion.

Other Reforms Pledged

Huh, soft-spoken and bespectacled, summoned a news conference and announced his intention to push for improved relations with the United States and Japan.

He also promised to reform the national police, whose brutality and political corruption helped spark the revolt; to lift martial law as soon as possible; and to call new elections within the constitutional time limit of three months.

Huh will head a caretaker government, working closely with the Assembly. He said the strong wish of the Assembly would be to draft a constitutional amendment under which the president still would be elected but the executive power would be vested in a cabinet whose premier would be named by the president from the ranks of the dominant party.

Navy's First Atomic Killer Sub Launched

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The U.S. Navy's first atomic hunter-killer submarine, the Tullibee, slid smoothly down the ways Wednesday to become the newest weapon in the nation's floating arsenal.

The 273-foot long, 2,600-ton ship plunged into the placid Thames River in a light rain only a few minutes after a high Navy officer had charged the Soviet Union with trying to "enslave the world."

Vice Adm. Edmund B. Taylor, commander of the Atlantic anti-submarine fleet, sharply criticized the Soviet Union a tyranny that was threatening "the hard-won freedom of mankind" and seeking "in many and devious ways to enslave the world."

Federal Judge Steps Aside In Hoffa Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—One federal judge stepped aside Wednesday from presiding over Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa's ouster trial. A second judge took over and quickly rejected a Hoffa move to delay the case.

F. Dickinson Letts, the 85-year-old U. S. district judge who created the monitor system supervising Hoffa's rule of the Teamsters, disqualified himself on the basis of Hoffa's charges of bias.

Letts said that, without any intention of admitting any truth in the bias charges, he had no choice under the law but to step aside once the charges were raised. However, Letts retained control of the monitor situation.

In what one of the opposing attorneys called a "double lateral forward pass," the case then went to Chief Judge David A. Pine who quickly assigned Judge Joseph R. Jackson to sit as trial judge in place of Letts.

He immediately began hearing pretrial motions. Teamsters lawyers pleaded for a trial delay until various motions still pending before Letts and the U. S. Court of Appeals are decided.

"Denied," Jackson said crisply the moment arguments ended.

He ordered more argument Thursday morning on another Hoffa motion to cancel the trial altogether. If that is denied, Jackson said, the case will get under way.

The trial is a civil one, based on contentions of court-appointed monitors that Hoffa, serving prison for advising a Philadelphia record firm on what tunes would sell well.

Furthermore, it was testified that Clark was allowed to buy a one-fourth interest in the firm for $125—an interest he was able to sell last year for about $15,000.

Investigators figured his profit was 11,900 per cent.

The testimony came from Harry Finfer, manager of Universal Record Distributing Co., and part owner of the Jamie Record Co., a manufacturing firm, of Philadelphia.

Finfer was before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee in its inquiry into payola, the

Mamie Won't Go To Paris With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower will not accompany the President to the Paris summit conference next month, the White House announced Wednesday.

But associate press secretary Anne Wheaton said the First Lady still hopes to go with her husband when he visits the Soviet Union, Japan and Korea in June.

In announcing that Mrs. Eisenhower will pass up the trip to Paris, Mrs. Wheaton said the First Lady will go instead to Denver to be on hand there May 13 for the 82nd birthday of her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, who has been seriously ill for months.

Housing Bill Survives Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A billion-dollar Democratic housing bill survived its first test in the House Wednesday. But Republicans said they would try to kill it with an anti-segregation amendment designed to alienate southern Democratic support.

The bill, strongly opposed by the Eisenhower administration, would require the government to channel one billion dollars from the Treasury into purchase of FHA and GI mortgages. It is designed to bring down prevailing high interest rates on home loans.

The legislation cleared its first hurdle when the House agreed 214-158 to take it up for debate. Republicans and some conservative Southerners denounced it as a "fiscally irresponsible, budget-busting" measure that represented a "raid on the treasury."

But Democrats said it was needed to combat a decline in home building that could help foster an economic recession.

Nixon's was the only name on the ballot, in either party.

In two special elections for unexpired terms in Congress, Republicans kept their seats.

Douglas Elliott, a state senator, defeated Democrat Robert Meyers, a newspaper executive, 45,230 to 28,481 from all but one of the district's 339 precincts.

Herman T. Schneebeli, an automobile dealer making his first political fight, topped Dean Fisher, a lawyer, in the other traditionally Republican central Pennsylvania area. With 373 of the district's 377 precincts reported, Schneebeli polled 44,155 to Fisher's 40,693. It was on behalf of Schneebeli, a Dartmouth College roommate, that Rockefeller visited the district last week.

Nixon's Pa. Vote Seen Exceeding Ike's 1956 Tally

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon piled up a vote in Pennsylvania's primary Tuesday which may overshadow President Eisenhower's huge preference count of 951,932 votes four years ago.

Nixon, running unopposed, has drawn 944,191 votes from 8,838 precincts out of the state's 9,013, already surpassing Eisenhower's 1952 primary vote of 863,785.

Of the 1,175 unreported precincts many are in Allegheny County — Pittsburgh — where Nixon is expected to gain further strength.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, amassed 176,897 write-in votes in 8,514 precincts in another primary showing which astonished many of the political experts.

Kennedy far outran four other Democratic presidential possibilities, thus becoming the chief contender for the state's 81 delegate votes. None, however, is bound by the outcome of the write-in contest.

Second to Kennedy, but at a great distance, was Adlai E. Stevenson, with 27,481 votes reported from 8,514 precincts. The others trailed feebly. Kennedy's total was close to three-fourths of all the votes cast for Democrats.

The heavy vote for Nixon was all the more surprising since he did no personal campaigning in the state. It killed off whatever hopes the backers of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York may have had for him. Rockefeller, still saying he was not a candidate, made two appearances in Pennsylvania last week on behalf of an old college chum running for Congress. His write-in vote, with returns incomplete, was 10,258.

Nixon's was the only name on the ballot, in either party.

Ike Says U.S. Had No Part In ROK Riots

President Asserts He Cautioned Rhee About His Mistakes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday that Syngman Rhee has made mistakes but the United States has had no part in inciting the riots which drove the Korean President out of power.

Eisenhower said the most he ever did was to point out that there were irregularities in the last Korean election and voice a hope they could be stopped lest they lead to trouble. This, he said, was just a friendly gesture to a man who has been a tremendous patriot but who made mistakes as he grew older.

Rhee is 85. He resigned Tuesday.

At a news conference which touched on activities of chiefs of state around the world, Eisenhower also said he doesn't believe Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is laying down any new ultimatum on Berlin—only repeating "the same old theme and the same old story."

Ike Reiterates Position

But if he is, the President cautioned, it could mean torpedoing next month's summit conference in Paris. Eisenhower did some repeating, too: "I shall never go to any meeting under a threat of force, the use of force or an ultimatum of any kind."

This was by way of reaction to a speech Monday in which Khrushchev said the West will lose all rights of access to Berlin if he signs a separate peace treaty with East Germany. Eisenhower's view of the speech is, "I don't think that we should take that too seriously."

At three other points, the news conference touched on presidents in one manner or another.

1. Eisenhower was set for a question on how he feels about the religious issue in the presidential electioneering at home. He fished a piece of paper from a pocket and read the parts of the Constitution that say no religious test ever shall be required as a qualification for any office and that Congress shall make no laws forbidding the free exercise of religion.

Those words, he said, provide a better answer than any he can think of.

De Gaulle Stand Unchanged

2. Because he thought there might be a change of attitude, Eisenhower said he had specifically asked visiting French President Charles de Gaulle if he stands by a 1959 pledge to allow the Algerian people self-determination. He said De Gaulle assured him this is a continuing official policy and personal conviction.

3. Eisenhower said he doesn't know what can be done—unless you want to resort to force—about the refusal of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic to allow Israeli ships to use the Suez Canal.

San Francisco Hails De Gaulle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle Wednesday visited the city where the United Nations was born and heard himself described as "the living patriot symbol of France."

Responding, De Gaulle told the crowd swarming the four-tiered rotunda at City Hall the "magnificent reception" accorded him by the people of San Francisco was proof to all the world of the "friendship of France and the United States."

Wednesday night the French President was guest of honor at a dinner attended by 4,000 San Franciscans. Thursday he visits a hospital and electronics factory at Palo Alto.

"Vive de Gaulle" rang through this city's streets where the United Nations was organized 15 years ago as the tall French President, wearing a dark grey suit, rode bareheaded beside Mayor George Christopher. Following a ticker-tape parade through the business district, the procession wound up at City Hall.

During the tumultuous years of World War II, Mayor Christopher declared, "Charles de Gaulle and his Cross of Lorraine were France! Today, as president of the Fifth Republic, Gen. de Gaulle is again the living patriot symbol of France."

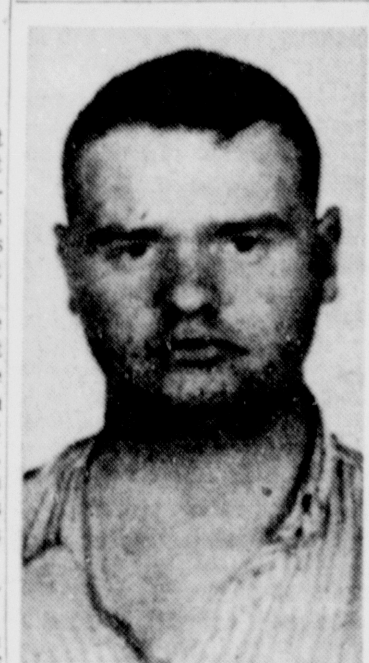

Nixon's was the only name on the ballot, in either party.

Locations In 51 Cities On IRS Crackdown List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury agents swooped down on gamblers across the nation on Wednesday in a series of co-ordinated raids on bookmakers and numbers operators failing to pay their federal gambling taxes.

The Internal Revenue Service, which announced the raids here, said gamblers in 51 cities in 23 states were earmarked for arrest.

Treasury officials said the mass crackdown was the most ambitious dragnet operation in several years. Some of the raids were pulled off with the assistance of state and local police.

72 Under Arrest

Reports reaching the Treasury indicated that as of 6:30 p.m. e.d.t.; there had been 72 arrests in 35 cities, including three by local police in Chicago.

As one Internal Revenue official put it, "it looks pretty good. It's coming up to expectations so far."

Some of the raids were aimed at lottery operators and numbers writers. But the main targets of the crackdown were bookmakers engaged in interstate operations.

They were arrested on charges of failing to pay the $50 a year special tax on bookmakers or the 10 per cent federal excise tax on gambling revenues. If convicted, they would face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Follow Undercover Work

The raids followed weeks, and in some cases, months of undercover work by intelligence agents.

The service said there was some advance evidence of connections between various bookmakers, but no proof of a nationwide syndicate. However, officials said the widespread arrests might turn up such a network.

The revenue service said that cities on the raid list included Baltimore, Brooklyn Park, Md., Pittsburgh and Hampton, Va.

Aerophysicist Killed In Crash

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — Dr. August Raspet, 46, nationally known aerophysicist, and another man employed by the Chance-Vaught Aircraft Co. were killed when their light plane crashed Wednesday.

The wreckage of the experimental-type plane was spotted by another pilot about one and a half miles from the Starkville Airport.

The other man was identified as L. L. Meyer, believed to be in his 30s and employed by Chance-Vaught in Dallas.

Hitler Art On Block

LONDON (AP) — Two signed landscapes done by Adolf Hitler in his Vienna house-painting period will be auctioned at Sotheby's May 4 along with works of Renoir, Monet and Degas. The Hitlers are owned by Monica Fisher, who fancies them as curatorial proposals being considered by Congress for compulsory health insurance for senior citizens which would increase social security taxes by 1 per cent.

The reference was to the spate of accusations from some quarters that has followed recent withdrawal of an Air Force manual alleging wide Communist influence in the churches, and by inuendo, in the National Council. The National and World Councils are cooperative bodies of most major Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican churches.

They said "these baseless charges" were being hurled by individuals and groups "who bear the name of Christ" even at a time when basic Christian unity is more vital than ever before.

In a 20,000-word Episcopal address, prepared for delivery to the Methodist quadrennial general conference, the bishops said all Christianity is threatened by rising non-Christian religions and a new idolatry—the worship of technology.

"What is happening, almost everywhere, is a diminishing recognition of the church as a major, customary institution in Western civilization," the 74 bishops declared.

Yet, in the midst of this challenge, they said "viciously false" assaults were being made on church leaders of "unimpeachable character, patriotism and loyalty to Christ" and on the National and World Council of Churches.

Lee Ki-poong Killed By Son In Death Pact

Election Set Off Bloody Uprising, Regime's Downfall

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The Seoul Martial Law Command has announced that Vice President-elect Lee Ki-poong and his wife and two sons committed suicide in a building on the grounds of the presidential mansion about 5:40 a.m. Thursday.

The family had disappeared from public view last week at the height of the bloody uprising against the now fallen government of Syngman Rhee.

Home Minister Lee Ho quoted by a Korean news service as saying one of Lee's sons, who also is the adopted son of Rhee, shot and killed his father, his mother and a younger brother, then turned the gun on himself.

Target Of Demonstrations

Lee Ki-poong, controversial and disavowed vice president-elect, was a chief target of antigovernment demonstrations that brought the downfall of the Rhee government.

Korean press reports called the deaths a suicide pact.

The Martial Law Command said the bodies of the four were taken to Metropolitan Army Hospital, where it was confirmed that all were dead.

The Command announcement said: "Around 5:40 a. m. Thursday, Mr. Lee Ki-poong, Mrs. Maria Park Lee, his first son, 2nd Lt. Kang Suk-lee (Rhee), and his second son, Lee Kang-uh, committed suicide at the official residence No. 36 of the presidential residence, located at 1 Sejong St., Seoul."

Investigation Under Way

"Their bodies were inspected and confirmed at the scene of the suicide by the prosecutor and physicians and were moved to the Metropolitan Army Hospital. An official investigation is under way."

Lee Ki-poong and Rhee were long-time friends and the old President, who Wednesday finally quit his post, had hand-picked Lee as his running mate in last month's elections.

Lee's lopsided victory led to charges that the elections were rigged, setting off the violence that brought Rhee's downfall.

Rhee adopted the son of his old friend in a practice not unusual in the Orient.

Six Pa. Counties Legalize Betting

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Six Pennsylvania counties approved pari-mutuel betting on harness horse racing Tuesday. This left the State Harness Racing Commission with only a limited area in which to set up such tracks.

Four of the counties were in the southeastern corner of the state: Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Philadelphia. The other two were in the anthracite area of Northeastern Pennsylvania: Luzerne and Northumberland counties.

All five Western Pennsylvania counties voting on the question rejected it, plus three eastern counties.

Lawrence B. Sheppard, chairman of the commission, said, however, that he would not be against locating more than one track in the same area.

The law permits the commission to license up to four pari-mutuel harness tracks, but only in those counties which vote approval. Only 14 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties held referenda on the issue Tuesday. Under the law, they may not do so again.

Accused Killer Seized By G-Men

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — FBI agents Wednesday arrested accused killer William Mason, one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals, as he strolled along a Milwaukee street.

Mason, a native of Nashville, Tenn., who has a criminal record dating back to 1954, was wanted for killing one man and wounding another in a barroom brawl in Detroit, March 10, 1959.

The reference was to the spate of accusations from some quarters that has followed recent withdrawal of an Air Force manual alleging wide Communist influence in the churches, and by inuendo, in the National Council. The National and World Councils are cooperative bodies of most major Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican churches.

Student Faces Homicide Charge In Coed Stabbing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-year-old American University student, charged with homicide, was arraigned Wednesday in the campus stabbing of the pretty brunette coed he had hoped to marry.

John S. Sweeney, a junior at the University, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner James F. Splain and then placed in a cell at police headquarters. The commissioner declined to set bond for the case.

A coroner's inquest has been scheduled tentatively for Monday morning.

Lt. George Donohue of the homicide squad said Judith Hubbard, a university freshman, was stabbed twice in the chest Tuesday night as she and Sweeney sat in a car near Miss Hubbard's dormitory.

She was the daughter of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Miles H. Hubbard of Arlington, Va. The father is director of the logistic planning division of the office of the chief of naval operations.

Adm. Hubbard said his daughter and Sweeney had planned to marry after their graduation, according to police, but the youth became impatient. The admiral told police he had spoken to the son about postponing the marriage and the youth had scene.

Maryland Will Check A-Plant Site Radiation

BAITIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Department of Health announced Wednesday it is going to test the air, water and ground for radiation around the proposed site of a nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania.

The tests to begin shortly will be made in a 30-mile radius around the plant site at Peach Bottom, Pa., nine miles northwest of the Conowingo Dam on the Susquehanna River.

This is only six miles away from where Baltimore will tap the Susquehanna for more drinking water.

The tests to be made now will be compared with others when the plant goes into operation, probably in 1963.

"We do not want to deter the realization of the potential of atomic energy for peacetime purposes," declared Dr. William F. Reindollar, chief of Maryland's division of occupational health.

But, he added, "we must set up safeguards against inherent dangers in order to utilize the advantages of this phenomenon."

Robert M. Brown, chief of the bureau of environmental hygiene, said surface water will be tested at seven points above and two below the Conowingo Dam. The air will be tested at Conowingo, Rising Sun and Whiteford. And samples will be taken of milk, fish, soil, algae, food crops, shell fish, well water and precipitation.

They will be analyzed for radioactivity and radio isotopes.

The Peach Bottom power plant has been proposed by an association of about 50 utility companies under sponsorship of the Philadelphia Electric Co.

The Atomic Energy Commission has solicited bids for its construction estimated at 24 million dollars. The nuclear system designed to provide high pressure steam for conventional turbine and generators would be the first of its kind in the United States.

A test reactor is being built at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Brown said the Pennsylvania Health Department has assured Maryland officials it will not permit discharge of any waste from the reactor into the Susquehanna River until both states agree on safety features.

The government announced the military buildup Wednesday.

The Dutch blamed "aggressive elements in the foreign policy of the Indonesian government, since the Dutch gave their former colonies independence in 1949."

In Jakarta, Indonesia officials reacted angrily to the Dutch military plans. One said he considers the moves "highly provocative."

Infant Lives Day After Being Born To Slain Mother

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — A baby lived 23 hours after being born to his slain mother by Cesarean section.

The infant died early Wednesday in Harbor General Hospital, where he had been removed from the body of Carole Tylor, 24. Her husband, Marvin, 26, is in jail on suspicion of murdering her.

Doctors removed the baby half an hour after Mrs. Tylor died, then kept him alive for 45 minutes by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before placing him in an incubator.

Police said Tylor admitted shooting his wife in the head at their home after a violent quarrel over his drinking.

Kennedy, Nixon Mass. Choices

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Vice President Richard M. Nixon are the overwhelming choices of Massachusetts voters for the Democratic and Republican presidential nominations.

At least that was the verdict of Tuesday's apathetic, preferential primary in which the voters—by and large—didn't bother to go to the polls.

Kennedy and Nixon ran far ahead of all actual or potential rivals for their party's nomination.

In his home state, Kennedy conceded the 41 Democratic National Convention votes by his party rivals and Nixon appeared assured of the support of the GOP convention delegation which has 38 votes.

The total vote in the state's 1619 precincts was:

Democratic:

Kennedy, 95,914; Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, 946; Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, 296; Adlai E. Stevenson, 456; Sen. Stuart Symington, 414; Nixon, 852.

Republican:

Nixon, 54,438; Henry Cabot Lodge, 578; Nelson Rockefeller, 4,235; and Kennedy, 3,413.

Senate Passes Mine Safety Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Wednesday passed a bill to extend federal coal mine safety regulations to small mines employing 14 or fewer workers.

The bill passed 80-4 now goes to the House.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), who offered the bill, told the Senate it contains aids and safeguards for small mine operators "to insure that the economic impact on them" would be at a minimum.

Concerning the aim of extending safety regulations to the small mines, Clark said statistics indicate that in recent years the fatality rate in such mines has been more than double that in the large mines covered by the 1952 safety act.

Clark said the bill, which would authorize spending an additional $400,000 a year for federal inspection, has been approved by the administration.

The bill drew the support of three Democratic presidential hopefuls. Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.).

Two other candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination — Sens. Stuart Symington (Mo.) and Wayne Morse (Ore.) — did not vote.

Kennedy said its passage would mark an important step in safeguarding the lives and health of miners. He said that after visiting a West Virginia coal mine Tuesday he was more convinced than ever that the bill was in the public interest.

Ike Will Look Into Problem Of Needy Miners

WASHINGTON (AP)—At President Eisenhower's news conference Wednesday, Mrs. May Craig of the Portland (Maine) Press Herald asked the following question:

"For more years than you have been in the White House, the pitiful children of the West Virginia unemployed coal miners have been starving for proper food. We do give them whatever surpluses we have. While you and Congress talk about helping the needy in foreign countries, isn't there something that you could do for needy Americans in this rich America of our own?"

The president replied: "Well, Mrs. Craig, you say they haven't been helped. I thought they had. Now I'm not going to try to generalize here or make any alibis. I will find out exactly what has happened because in talking to the secretary of agriculture over the years, I assumed that for those people that were really destitute, that there were methods for helping them so that they got enough to eat."

Policeman Killed, Rookie Partner Injured In Crash

By The Associated Press

A 24-year-old Anne Arundel County policeman was killed and his rookie partner seriously injured Wednesday when their car skidded off a rain-slick county road and crashed into a utility pole.

In Baltimore a 73-year-old man was killed and another pedestrian critically injured after being struck by a car as they stepped off a trolley.

Patrolman Gerald Hnyla of River Beach was pronounced dead on arrival at South Baltimore General Hospital. His partner, Frederick Hyde, who graduated from police school last week, suffered leg, arm, face and internal injuries.

Police were unable to explain the circumstances surrounding the accident on Fort Smallwood Road across from the entrance to Cottage Grove Beach.

They said Hyde's condition did not permit questioning. There had been reports of a stolen car in the area shortly before the crash occurred and police speculated the officers may have been chasing the car at the time of the accident.

The wrecked patrol car was found by two other officers patrolling in the area.

John W. Getten, 73, was pronounced dead on arrival at Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore. The other pedestrian, Philip E. Ustach, 47, also of Baltimore, was reported in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. Doctors said he suffered a fractured pelvis and severe injuries to the left leg and shoulder.

Witnesses said the two men were hurled through the air by the impact of the car driven by Peter John Sotiropoulos, 26, also of Baltimore.

Police charged him with manslaughter, reckless driving and failing to stop behind a street car.

Lloyd E. Sanbower, 39, of Boyds was killed Tuesday when a pickup truck in which he was riding collided with a car during a thunderstorm.

Police said Sanbower was employed in the signal department of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The driver of the truck, Walter P. Melvin, 51, of Boyds, suffered minor injuries.

Police said a car driven by Arthur E. Onley, 44, of Barnesville, was on the wrong side of Route 117 and hit the truck head-on. Onley and a passenger, Albert J. McMurtrey, 54, of Barnesville, suffered minor injuries.

New Baltimore Produce Mart Opens Monday

BALTIMORE (AP) — Farmers won't have to make that long, early morning trip through the Baltimore business district after next Monday to get their produce to market.

A new wholesale produce mart for fresh fruits and vegetables will open on U.S. 40 near the north exit of the Harbor Tunnel, Dr. Paul E. Nystrom of the University of Maryland extension service announced.

The market, he said, is designed to lower handling costs through greater efficiency.

Dr. Nystrom is a member of the New Marsh Wholesale Produce Market Authority which is developing the new outlet under a 1955 legislative act.

It is expected to draw growers and produce buyers from Rochester, N.Y., Pittsburgh and northern Virginia. It covers 50 acres, and replaces downtown facilities.

HE DIDN'T MISS BOAT—Husky baby boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Cribb, of Penns Grove, N. J., sleeps in arms of Nurse Ritouko Hodgson in Chester, Pa., hospital yesterday after he was born in the front seat of an automobile aboard a ferry boat crossing the Delaware River. It all started at 5:30 a. m. when Mrs. Cribb woke her husband with word that "now is the time." They drove to Bridgeport, N. J., and boarded the ferry. The baby arrived while the boat was in midstream. The skipper radioed ahead and police took mother and son to a hospital. The boy was the Cribbs' 13th child. (AP Photofax)

Llama Entered In Hopkins Election As Gag May Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — A dark election, explains Sundermeyer, horse—really an off-white llama—is running for student council president at Johns Hopkins University.

The gag may backfire on the student weekly newspaper which entered Roger "largely as a practical joke." Veteran campus political observers feel Roger's chances of winning are excellent.

"We endorsed Roger largely as a practical joke, but also to make the students think about the election," explains Nels Sundermeyer, an editor of the weekly Newsletter.

"We did not run him to win," he added.

Council members and especially incumbent president William DeVoe don't think the joke's a bit funny.

"I sincerely believe the student body has a much higher regard for the student council than to vote a llama in," says DeVoe.

But the president is taking no chances. He's been going about campus tearing down campaign posters urging Roger's election.

What happens if Roger, who lives at the Druid Hill Park Zoo, wins in his campus political debut?

Baltimore Area Transit Survey Delay Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A detailed survey of Baltimore area transit problems should be delayed until completion of the Baltimore Beltway and the Northeastern Expressway, the State Roads Commission chairman said Wednesday.

John B. Funk told the Exchange Club that 1963 might be a good time to begin the survey after traffic patterns created by the new highways have been stabilized.

Under the new five-year crash program for state highway construction, the commission hopes to complete the two dual-lane highways by 1962.

Funk said that with the opening of these highways "not only will traffic movements change, but the patterns of potential growth will change also."

"By careful analysis of the new traffic movements, the location of new commercial developments, the placement of high density housing, the planners can develop the Baltimore region's mass transit needs of the moment," he said.

The beltway, partially complete, will circumvent the city and permit through traffic to pass around the city without having to cope with downtown traffic.

The Northeastern Expressway would extend from Baltimore to the Delaware line, roughly paralleling U.S. 40.

AF Utility Role For F-27 Plane Urged By Foley

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consideration of the F-27, manufactured at Hagerstown, Md., as a new utility transport plane for the Air Force is urged by Rep. John R. Foley (D-Md.).

Foley recently appeared before a House Appropriations subcommittee to back the F-27 as a replacement for the DC-3.

In testimony released Wednesday, Foley said there will remain the need for utility aircraft even in the missile age.

The F-27, made by the Fairchild Aircraft Co., does 2½ times more work than the C-27 at only 39 per cent of the ton-mile cost, Foley said.

"The F-27 is here to stay if we can get some stimulation and inspiration from the Air Force, and that is why I want to appeal to the demonstrated leadership capabilities of this committee to go forward on its own," Foley said.

Foley noted that the government has invested 27 million dollars in the Fairchild plant, and added:

"I am not taking issue at all with the Air Force, but I am appealing to this committee to save the taxpayers' money and to put into the inventory a proven aircraft, one that will be with us a long time.

"Just incidentally, and very important to me, it will save an operation in my congressional district which at one time employed 10,000 people and is now employing less than 2,500 people—save it so that these skilled employees can perform a vital and important defense function for our country."

Laundry Pickets Handed Ultimatum

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Union pickets continued to march in front of the strike-closed Troy Laundry here Wednesday despite a management threat the plant would be closed if the employees didn't return to work.

Edwin Miller, an attorney representing the company, issued the ultimatum.

The strike began Monday, with the principal issue a union demand that a guaranteed $35 a week minimum be established. This would apply to parttime help.

AEC To Give Martin Go-Ahead On Reactor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission gave notice Wednesday it intends to issue a permit to the Martin Co. to construct a critical experiment facility at a site 1½ miles south of Middle River, Md.

The fluidized bed reactor will be used, under contract with the AEC, to test the criticality of slightly enriched uranium oxide fuel pellets.

The Martin Co. plans to complete construction in mid-1960.

Unless a request for a hearing is received in 15 days the permit will be issued.

SRC Asks Spur Bids

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission today announced plans for constructing a spur linking Maryland 3 and the Ritchie Highway to the Baltimore Beltway.

Bids will be opened May 10.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Don't Be Caught "Time-Short"!

Is a lack of time and an abundance of haste what you have the very most of? Are your mornings such a mad rush that you haven't time to think . . . and even find yourself a bit irritated and on the thin edge of your nerves?

People who live busy lives and are successful at so many things, budget their time right down to the minute. It's the only way they can cram so many activities into any one day.

Now I don't think any one of you should give up a single thing out of your busy lives except the pressure that you are manufacturing. It spoils your disposition, pulls crows feet around your eyes and keeps you from relishing and appreciating some of your most precious moments!

You can relieve that feeling of pressure and urgency. I've proved it to myself. All you need do is learn to get up for yourself in the morning — every morning! And firmly resolve to live each moment of the day for yourself! Does that sound selfish? It isn't a bit!

Let's take a simple thing like breakfast as an example. While you're getting it, do you worry about catching the bus? Why? The time you've allotted to breakfast is an entirely different piece of time than the one you've saved for making the bus. You know what your trouble really is? You are like a runner who jumps the gun in a false start. The time is there. You're just manufacturing your own haste by skipping over one moment to get

Road Opening Delayed For Berms, Rails

The barricaded Industrial Boulevard section from South Street toward Everts Creek, a distance of about half a mile, has puzzled many motorists.

A check with John Bushby, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, resulted in an explanation for the boulevard being kept closed during the past winter.

Bushby said that the shoulders along the boulevard, particularly the southbound dual lane highway adjacent to the new B&O Railroad yards are at least three inches lower than the paved surface.

The Cumberland Contracting Company expects to complete building up the shoulders to grade, Bushby said, within a few weeks. Guard rails will also be erected along the boulevard section next to the railroad yards.

The SRC decided to keep the section closed during the winter due to the hazards to motorists who would have been subject to possible accidents from the low shoulders and lack of guard rails.

Bushby also reported that SRC crews have started test borings on Dan's Mountain preparatory to erection of a 125-foot tower for the microwave radio system of the state agency.

The tower will be built with three "legs," which will be imbedded in a concrete foundation. The microwave radio system will improve communications among state road workers in times of emergency as well as for routine work projects.

Trash Pickup Is Completed

The most successful trash collection in the history of the city was completed yesterday by Streets Department crews, with spokesmen estimating that at least 270 loads of debris were hauled to the city dump.

Originally scheduled to be completed last Friday, the trash pickup was extended through Monday and Tuesday, and then again extended through yesterday.

The Street Department warehouse was swamped with telephone calls yesterday by residents of West Side streets, the last section of town to be cleaned up.

Most of Monday and Tuesday were used in backtracking streets in the South End, East Side and North End from which trash was not picked up last week. Street Department officials said. The principal complaint against the collection was that there was not enough advance publicity about the project.

Bloodmobile Plans Visit At PPG Plant

The blood collection scheduled for Works 7, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company on May 2 has been postponed until June 6, Allegheny County Red Cross officials announced.

The May blood collections will be held instead at the Eagles home on North Mechanic Street. The change was made because of the unsettled work schedules at PPG following the rebuilding of the plant's glass tank.

"Pittsburgh Plate employees have been most cooperative in the county blood program," a Red Cross spokesman said, "and we are happy to reschedule the bloodmobile in order to relieve them of the responsibility until production schedules level out."

Red Cross officials commented that meeting the May quota with collections at the Eagles Home May 2 and at the Lonaconing VFW May 3 will be more difficult because of the schedule change and urge all between ages 18 and 39 to donate.

Celanese Sales Set Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Celanese Corp. profit for the first quarter dipped a shade under the year-earlier level the company reported Tuesday.

Earnings for the three months ended March 31 came to $4,847,728, or 50 cents a share, against $4,895,897, or 51 cents a share. Sales, though, climbed to $66,712,023, a first quarter record from $58,890,158.

Chairman Harold Blanche explained earnings were retarded by expenses involved in developing new facilities. "But once they reach the operational stage," he said, they "are expected to make a material contribution to the corporation's earnings."

Knights Plan Degree Work Here Sunday

An exemplification of the third degree of the Knights of Columbus will be held Sunday afternoon at the home of Cumberland Council 586.

Some 100 candidates are expected to take the degree work, according to George Lovenstein, chairman of fraternal activities who said the class will be named in honor of Frank A. Barley of the local council; John L. Casey, Frostburg Council 1442; Charles W. Carney, Mt. Savage Council 1058; Francis R. Shaffer, Oakland Council 1771 past grand knights, and in memorandum of the late Norman E. Chirton, former district warden and member of the local council.

The candidates will attend 10 a.m. mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in a body. They will meet at the K of C home here at 9:15 a.m. and march to the church. In the event of inclement weather they will assemble at Carroll Hall.

Exemplification of the degree will begin at 1 p.m. on the third floor of the council home. Candidates will assemble on the second floor at 12:15 p.m.

Following the degree work, a dinner will be served at 5:15 p.m. at SS. Peter and Paul hall. Peter J. Carpentier, past grand knight and past district deputy, will be toastmaster.

Guest speaker will be Maurice Klein, executive secretary of the Maryland State Council of the Knights of Columbus. Remarks will be given by Carl Firlie, district deputy, and Lawrence Geiger, grand knight of the local council.

The dinner will be prepared and served by the Christian Mothers of SS. Peter and Paul parish. Assisting Mr. Lovenstein are John Rorick, Edward Lyons, Richard Grabenstein and Conrad Yost.

Candidates will be from the local council as well as Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Oakland and Piedmont Council 685.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

When faced with an apparent choice of two finesses, declarer will frequently find after mature deliberation that the finesse in one suit is distinctly superior to the other. Observe how South's blind spot in today's hand cost him a vulnerable slam.

The six spade contract, although not unreasonable, was reached on an aggressive sequence of bids. South's two no trump opening was a point shy of the requirements, but we are not inclined to quibble with his choice since the tens provide a measure of compensation. North's three club response is the conventional method of inquiring if partner has a four card major suit. When South bid three spades, North felt he had struck gold, and he made a slam try by jumping to five spades. South's acceptance of the invitation is somewhat doubtful with a bare minimum even though he does have all of the outside controls.

West got off to the most effective lead for his side, a club. The nine was ducked in dummy and East's jack forced the ace. To declarer, it appeared that there was nothing more to the hand than taking a couple of finesses, in spades and diamonds. So he tried the trump finesse first and when that lost, East produced the king of clubs for the setting trick.

What South had failed to realize was that the success of the contract hinged entirely on the finesse in diamonds, for if the

Local Woman Hurt On Golf Course

Mrs. William H. Geppert, 952 Braddock Road, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon after being injured on the golf course at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Geppert sustained a fractured wrist when the golf cart she was riding went over an embankment on the course.

Mrs. William H. Ryan, who was also riding in the cart, suffered minor injuries. Both women jumped from the cart when it started backwards over the embankment.

149 Liquor Licenses Already Renewed

More than 53 per cent of the available beer, wine and liquor licenses in Allegany County had been renewed when the Court House closed at 4 p.m. yesterday.

With yesterday's distribution of 72 more licenses, the number now in the hands of the tavern operators has climbed to 149 or nearly 54 per cent of the 277 available.

Yesterday, the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners approved the issuance of two licenses to new holders for the new license year starting Sunday. John J. Cullen and Robert F. Brockey were granted a Class D beer license on Bedford Road now held by Howard V. and Esie C. Brockey. Francis A. Doolan was issued a Class D beer license on McMullen Highway near Cresaptown now held by John G. Doolan.

Today and tomorrow are the last days to obtain the new licenses before the new license year starts as both the liquor board office and office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, which issues the permits, are closed on Saturdays.

king of diamonds was offside the defenders could immediately cash a club. On the other hand, if the diamond finesse is successful, declarer can discard the losing club from dummy immediately and now is in position to concede a trump trick, if necessary. Therefore, when West does not cover the queen of spades at trick two, declarer should go up with the ace and concentrate his efforts on the diamond suit. When East shows up with the king, the contract is home.

Wife's Income Will Affect Vet's Pension

Any veteran who is thinking of applying to the Veterans Administration for a pension and has a wife who is working should be aware of one important fact.

That is that all income of a veteran's spouse in excess of $1,200 will be considered to be available to the veteran by the new pension law that goes into effect July 1, 1960.

Thus the income of a veteran's wife in excess of the exempted $1,200 must be reported as part of the veteran's income.

Samuel Weston, officer in charge of the VA office here, emphasizes that veterans and dependents now receiving pensions may continue to receive them as at present or choose to come under the new pension law.

Once this choice is made, Mr. Weston said, the law provides no way that they may return to the present system of pension payments.

The VA office at the local Post Office is open from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. Monday through Friday for those who would like to confer with Mr. Weston.

The Eagles' Wings
Take A Clipping

For an agency supposedly well versed in diplomacy and tact, the United States Department of State occasionally finds itself in ludicrous situations. Recently, in the course of a Congressional hearing on State Department budget requests, the representative on hand from America's official overseas representative corps acknowledged it was quite true "someone" had trained a diplomat in Chinese and then sent him to London where he could converse in Chinese with the British.

Rep. John J. Rooney, chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee—the man who uncovered the case of America's Chinese-speaking diplomat in Britain—must have concluded the world has become complicated when the diplomatic corps no longer trusts one another except in a commonly foreign language.

Whatever he thought, Representative Rooney went on scanning State Department money requests until he came to one marked "eagles" and carrying a $65,000 price tag. Although the State Department has grown into a multi-service agency, including many activities not concerned with America's representation in other countries, the purchase of $65,000 worth of eagles sounded a bit fantastic.

Congressman Rooney discovered the particular eagles in question had wing spreads of 15 feet and were in reality statues to adorn the entrance to the new $53 million building State built for itself. He also discovered a prior payment of $50,000 had been made to the sculptor, bringing the grand total for the pair to $115,000.

The bill reported out by the House Appropriations Committee did not include $65,000 for eagles.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Henry The Navigator

Our age, in many respects, starts with Henry the Navigator, Prince of Portugal, whose 500th anniversary of his death is being commemorated this year in his native country. The United States should note this man's commemoration because he is the father of discovery—the spiritual ancestor of Columbus and the other navigators who crossed the seas or circled the Earth.

The 15th Century could not accept the folklore assumption that the Earth was flat, lying between Heaven and Hell. More knowledge existed of the Indian Ocean and the China Sea than of the South Atlantic, but progress was being made in the art of navigation and in the mathematics of astronomy. The beginnings of modern discovery started with Henry the Navigator's expedition of discovery of the Azores in 1419 and brave men continue to move into the unknown up to this very day when expeditions of discovery go to the Antarctic, the Himalayas, and prospectively to the moon.

More important than this event, which ultimately led to the discovery of America, was that Henry the Navigator was perhaps the first to approach navigation scientifically. He brought together and arranged to systematize the existent knowledge of the science of geography and navigation of the time. He established an observatory at Sagres where more accurate tables of the declination of the sun were developed.

The journeys of the Portuguese navigators in the South Atlantic paved the way for Columbus, Magellan and all the others who were seeking a sea route to India, by which they really meant Indonesia where they could find spices. Columbus was on his way there when he found the Americas in his path. Europeans knew about India and China because they had been trading with those areas as far back as there is any recorded history. Even in the Bible mention is made of Sinim which is obviously China. But nothing was known of the Americas.

There was an old folklore of Atlantis, a lost continent that may have existed at one time somewhere between North Africa and South America, but it had disappeared. The earliest European assumption was that if one travelled West from Europe, at some point he would fall off the Earth. By 1433, it had become essential for Europe to find a road to the East which would not be held by the all-conquering Arabs. Enough knowledge was already available to justify informed men to believe that the Earth was round and therefore if one travelled West, one would ultimately reach the farthest East. It was a courageous thought and even a more courageous act to try to accomplish.

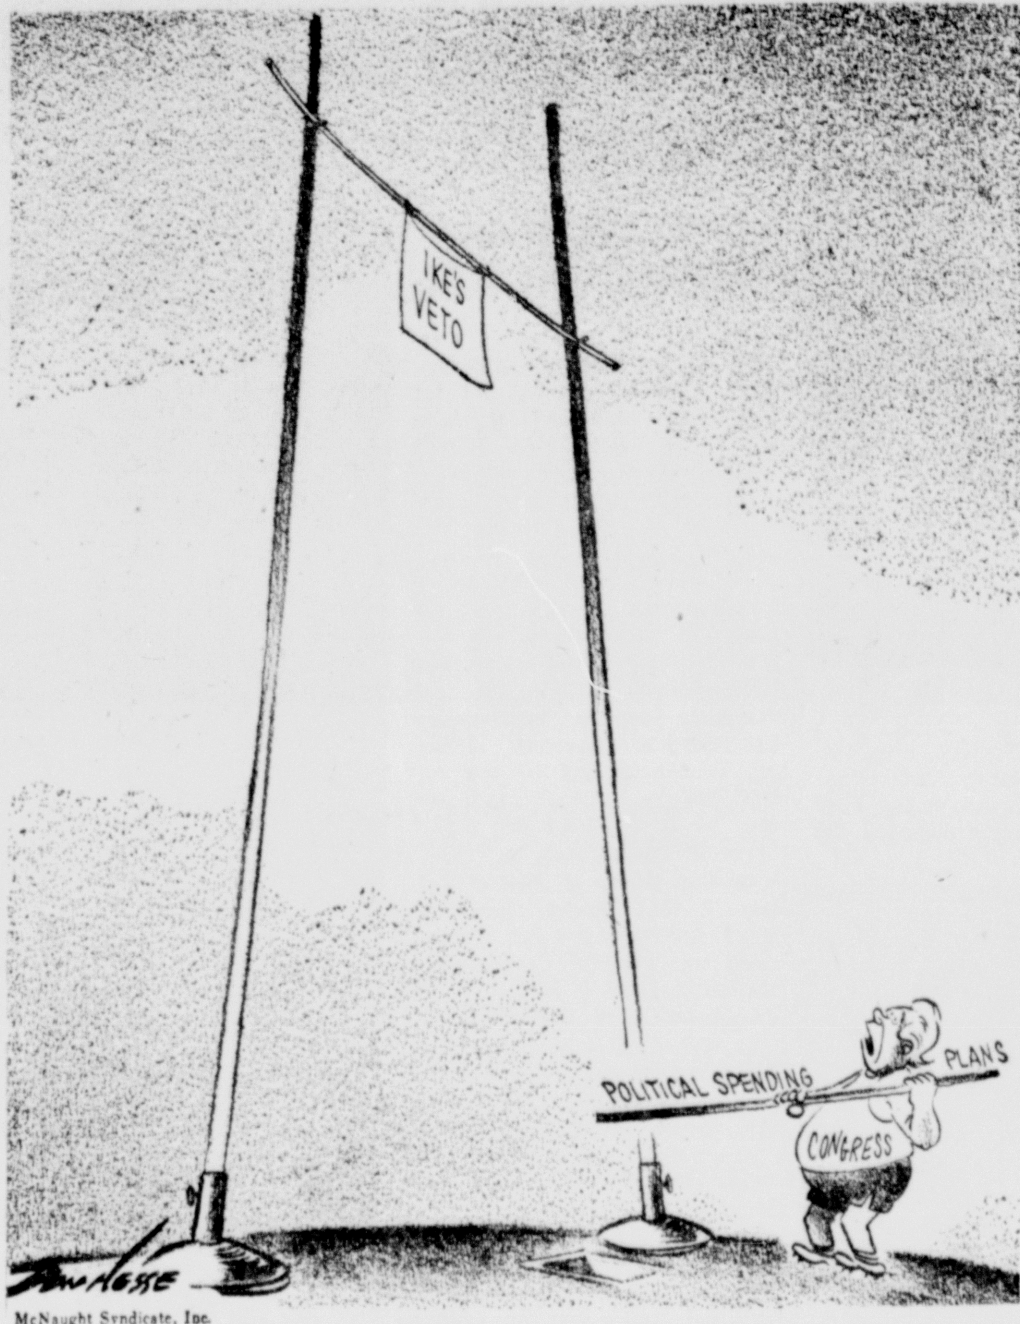

Henry the Navigator is not as well known in these days as Christopher Columbus, but he was a man of daring ideas. He was born in Oporto, Portugal, on March 4, 1394, the son of John I, King of Portugal. His mother was Philippa, an Englishwoman, the daughter of John of Gaunt.

It is difficult for us these days to realize what a great empire Portugal had managed to develop. Brazil itself is one of the largest and richest countries in the world and it was once a Portuguese colony. Of the enormous activities of Portugal in the Indian Ocean and China Sea, little remains except scattered islands and such colonies as Goa in India and Macao off the coast of China. Trade was in different items in those days than it is today. Spices were of enormous value and gold was a commodity in active trading. But an active business was slavery. Slaves were captured along the African coast and shipped wherever there was a market. It is reported that by 1446, the Portuguese had carried off nearly 1,000 slaves. The slave trade, at that time, was legitimate and very profitable.

The Portuguese were not very successful colonizers. In Brazil, they owned a domain which possessed natural resources beyond the dreams of man. These have not yet been properly developed and continue to be a reservoir for the future. Goa, which is the last remaining foreign colony in India, has never developed its possible potentials, nor has Macao in China.

Henry the Navigator was a scientist rather than a politician. His services to mankind were greatest in the fields of navigation and astronomy. Unlike most rulers and politicians, what he built can never be forgotten or destroyed.

'Gonna Take Some Doing'

World Court Could Decide Berlin Question

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev has upset the applecart again. He declares in his latest speech that, if the Soviet Union chooses to sign a peace treaty with the East German government, this could lead to the loss by the Western allies of their rights of access to West Berlin "by land, water or air."

This is a renewal of a threat made some time ago but, coming as it does now after a period of "peaceful co-existence" and exchanges of visits between the top men of the West and East, it raises a question as to what has been really resolved.

The Soviet Premier may have had a tactical reason for expressing again his warning to the West. The "summit" conference is due in the middle of May at Paris, and it might be assumed that no participant government would, publicly at least, recede from its viewpoint before such a meeting takes place. But it is significant that Mr. Khrushchev now questions the validity of the allied agreements themselves which ended World War II.

If one ally can ignore the signatures of other allies to a contract and, by the simple device of reorganizing a government in a portion of what was previously occupied territory, thinks it can deprive the conquering nations of their rights, then international contracts or agreements are meaningless.

This is what is known as a "juridical" question. It can be settled by a court of international law. Such a tribunal exists today at The Hague with the sanction of the United Nations. It is known as "The International Court of Justice." Certainly there could be no logical reason for refusing to accept the jurisdiction of such a court to answer one question—are the rights of the allies separable. Can the rights of one be forfeited as a result of the acts of another signatory?

There has always been a dispute as to whether the interallied agreement which provided for four zones of occupation in Europe did provide for access to the Russian zone in Germany. It is nothing was specifically spelled out in the document on the subject of access primarily because it was not deemed necessary. Here were the military representatives of the three principal governments—the Soviet Union, the United States and Great Britain—drawing up arrangements to occupy what had been enemy territory. It would be absurd to contend that failure to mention a specific right of access meant a denial of such a privilege between the occupying armies.

But the right of an army of occupation, acting in concert with other armies of an alliance, is something that international law has dealt with in principle many times before. What the present controversy amounts to, in fact, is an effort to demolish the entire agreement by the withdrawal of one of the signatories. Certainly a nation can withdraw from an occupation zone any time it pleases, but it cannot impair rights obtained by its allies.

Since these are legal questions, it would appear that they might well be considered by the Court of International Justice if agreement by direct diplomatic negotiation should prove unsuccessful.

There was a time in world history when settlement of international disputes by legal tribunals was widely advocated. It was frequently asserted that, while questions of "national honor" couldn't be adjudicated, there was every reason why questions of a "justiciable" nature should be submitted to tribunals of law.

Many quarrels of an international character have been submitted to special commissions of arbitration. The United States has often been called upon in the past to settle boundary disputes between Latin-American nations when those nations agreed to submit such controversies to a commission composed of members of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The existence today of an international court at The Hague which accepts cases from all countries, irrespective of whether they are members of the court, is fortunate. For a ready-made machinery is available to all sides provided they are really sincere in their desire to solve international disputes without resort to military force.

Back of the deadlock between the Soviet Union and the Western countries over the status of West Berlin has been a threat of one-sided action. The threat to deprive the Western Allies of their rights in West Berlin, by assuming that the East German Republic would decline to recognize them, implies that military force might be invoked.

It is clear now that the Western allies do not intend to give up Western Berlin and that any attempt to take away their rights would be met by military resistance. Nikita Khrushchev knows this and hence, if he is only talking for propaganda purposes, no one will be disturbed. But if he means to fulfill his threat of unilateral action, then the idea of using the world court to settle the legal points involved affords an honorable formula for the solution of the dispute.

Senate Passed Clean Elections Bill,
But Speaker Rayburn Stymies It

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana, who will probably be the chairman of the Democratic convention, was talking to an independent oilman in the south.

"I just sent a contribution over to your state," said the oilman.

"Who for?" asked Boggs.

"I don't know who it was for," said the oilman. "but it was against a fellow named Sparks who's running for governor."

"You must mean Senator Sparkman," said Congressman Boggs. "He comes from Alabama, not Louisiana, and he's running for the Senate, not for governor."

"I don't know," said the oilman, "but it was to defeat the niggers and the Catholics."

Boggs, an outstanding Congressman, was defeated for governor of Louisiana because he is a Catholic. But he did not bother to argue the point with his informer.

Note—Sen. John Sparkman is running for re-election this time with opposition only from Adm. John Cromelin, retired, a rabid bigot; and from Zeke Calhoun, a filling station operator in Phenix City, Ala., who is head of the local White Citizens Council.

Sparkman, who has a fine Senate record, recently voted to keep secret all contributions to primary election campaigns. If published, the oilman's contribution to defeat Sparkman would be known. Now it isn't. The clean elections bill which the Senate passed, despite Sparkman's negative vote on this point, is now stymied in the House of Representatives by Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Exclusive Barbershop

Congressman Francis Walter of Pennsylvania, U. S. delegate to the Intergovernmental Committee on European Migration, was traveling through Latin America to ascertain how Latin American countries are handling European refugees.

In Rio de Janeiro he discovered facts not only about European migration, but about why the USA is unpopular. When U. S. Ambassador John Cabot gave a luncheon for Walter, American businessmen were the featured guests. Congressman Walter wanted to meet Brazilians, but Brazilians were not invited.

At a press conference later, the Congressman from Pennsylvania heard Brazilian journalists complain about American snobishness.

"The American Embassy even has a barbershop inside the Embassy building," said one journalist, "so Americans will not have to go out and mingle with the people of Brazil."

Book Banning

Lawrence Derthick, U. S. Commissioner of Education, has been getting clippings from all over the country about his failure to read more. They result from the fact that while in Miami the other day he was questioned about two books—"Brave New World" by Aldous Huxley and "1984" by George Orwell.

"I never heard of these books," said the man who is supposed to inspire and promote U. S. education.

However, Derthick's illiteracy has had a healthy backfire. So many Floridians are incensed over the book ban that more interest is being taken in education. Jack Gordon, a busy Miami Beach banker, decided it was the duty of private citizens to work at education. He became a candidate for the school board. When he asked for the right to appear before the board to discuss book banning, the board banned him. They refused to let him appear.

Later, this also backfired. The board reconsidered, invited Gordon to speak. The books were banned, incidentally, only on the strength of an anonymous phone call.

The Readjustment

By Leslie Gould

The stock market since the first of the year has been going through a readjustment—one of the most drastic in such a short period of time in 30 years.

From the first of the year to mid-March the market lost 13.3 per cent of its values—as measured by the leading price average. Nearly half of that loss was recovered in the next five weeks. Profit-taking in the latest week then cut these gains.

Before the recovery, the Dow Theorists—a market cult that follows the charts for indications of long term trends—were saying the bull market was over and a bear one had set in. The only trouble was their "bear signal" came late after a nearly 90 point fall in the market.

For the average investor all this is confusing and puzzling—particularly in light of the massive bullishness at the start of the year. Charts to them have about the same meaning as the hieroglyphics on a doctor's prescription or a Salvatore Dali painting.

So, he must wonder under these conditions what the "educated"—money—the large mutual funds and closed end investment trusts—is doing.

Are they buying? Are they selling? Or are they just sitting tight with the $18 1/2 billions entrusted to their care?

A study of the purchases and sales in this period by investment trusts accounting for nearly half the total of such funds shows some of the same confusion and more than a little contradictions.

That difference of opinion is what makes horse races and stock markets.

Most of the funds studied bought on balance, but there was a big increase in turn over. A report by Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., Stock Exchange member and the leading authority on trusts, places the number of issues traded by the investment companies at 508 in the first quarter. This compares with 309 traded in the last quarter of 1959, when the market was making its all time high.

Purchases in the aggregate involved $300 million, while sales amounted to roughly $205 million. Purchases were about the same as in the last quarter of '59. Sales then were $157 million. Sales exceeded purchases in six major groups, the steels being the chief target.

There also was major selling in the air lines, the motors, auto parts, railroads, railway equipment and rubbers.

There was substantial selling in the drugs, but also some very heavy buying in this group. The same for the oils.

On the buy side, there was greater interest in defensive stocks—like utilities, foods, beverage and retail trade.

Interestingly, there was contin-

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SEASONED WOOD—A quiet, 73-year-old Virginia-born Washingtonian is one of the world's most renowned violin makers of current times. In his shop in downtown Washington, Herman Weaver has fashioned nearly 300 violins and cellos for the great and near-great of the concert stage.

Unheralded outside the world of music, Weaver nonetheless is a celebrity and a "must" for visiting violinists. One violinist passed up a Stradivarius in preference for a Weaver.

Weaver's fame has spread around the world; he is as well known in European music circles as in the United States. When David Oistrakh, the Soviet virtuoso, played in Washington a few years ago, he made Weaver's shop his first stop in the capital.

Weaver doesn't believe that a violin's greatness lies in any one factor, such as wood or a secret varnish formula. All must be done carefully and perfectly to achieve a true instrument, he says.

Like all violin makers, Weaver is constantly on the lookout for well-seasoned wood. He got some from unusual and famous places following World War II, when the White House and the Senate underwent extensive remodeling. He eagerly snapped up wood the renovators considered scraps—boarding from the Senate roof and paneling and doors from the White House.

Today, some violinists on the full music on instruments whose concert stage are playing beautiful wood once was touched by the early political leaders of the nation.

OLD AGE—In all the furor over a government insurance program to provide hospital and surgical care for persons eligible to receive old age pensions under social security, facts tend to get lost in the heat of debate.

A study by Congress shows that the elderly, as a group, are not generally in the lowest income bracket. Further, when assets as well as income is taken into consideration, they are usually fairly well off, having built up equity over the years in homes and other real estate, bank accounts and insurance policies.

The rub is that the elderly tend to think—and vote—as a group when their interests are involved.

Eyelid Plastic Surgery Popular In Hawaii

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A Hawaiian plastic surgeon reported an increasing number of requests from Orientals to create folds in the upper lids. When a Caucasian opens his eyes, the upper lid rolls back like a rolltop desk and a curved furrow appears along the upper margin. The lids usually do not fold back in Hawaiians of Chinese, Korean or Japanese stock.

Dr. Leabert R. Fernandez told members of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery that the change is easy to make. The upper lid is smooth and tense because of large deposits of fatty tissue under the skin. In addition, the muscles that open the lid are attached at different points than in Caucasians. A fold is created by stitching the muscle that opens the upper lid to an underlying layer of the skin of the eyelid. A deeper fold can be made by a more extensive procedure in which the fat pad is removed and the muscle lowered.

TV snacks and supermarkets have been added to the list of reasons why people overeat. According to Dr. S. W. Kalb, the trap is laid originally when the TV viewer watches a commercial that describes a certain food or drink. Later he buys these products, filling the pantry with snacks. As the evening wears on the same commercials coax the viewer into the idea that he is hungry—and here we go again.

The booby trap in the supermarket is the gimmick to buy—not one loaf of bread—but two, three, or four at a time. The child no longer asks Mother for an ice cream cone. He urges her to buy a gallon and "we can put it in the freezer." Many women buy enough food to last a week but it is eaten in four or five days. It is available, so everyone eats—usually too much.

TOMORROW: Cataract removal.

Man Jailed In Mineral Co. For Bigamy

Baltimorean Held For Jury

KEYSER — A Baltimore man is being held in Mineral County Jail at Keyser under $2,000 bond pending a hearing on a bigamy charge.

Justice of the Peace John E. Somerville Jr., ordered the man, Ernest Lee Bailey, held for the July grand jury following a hearing on Monday.

Bailey was arrested and charged by West Virginia State Troopers H. A. Lee and R. B. Noechel. Police said Bailey married a girl five years ago in Virginia. However, she was married and her husband was in the penitentiary. In 1955, police said she obtained a divorce from her first husband and remarried Bailey.

Authorities said this marriage didn't last, and Bailey moved to Elk Garden to reside. On December 2, of last year he married Charlene Weese, 14, of Elk Garden, without first obtaining a divorce from his first wife.

Magistrate Somerville ruled Monday that both marriages are valid and therefore Bailey must stand trial on a bigamy charge.

Indiana University Is Placed On Probation By NCAA

ANNOUNCES NCAA ACTION—Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, sits on his haunches as he dictates a statement to newsmen yesterday outlining a four-year probation the NCAA imposed on Indiana University. The NCAA, governing body of college athletics, said Indiana University violated rules in recruiting six prospective football players, five in 1958 and another in 1959.

Four-Year Probation Is Imposed

Recruiting Rules Infractions Cited In Severe Penalty

ATLANTA (AP) — Alleged infractions of recruiting rules brought Indiana University a four-year probation term Wednesday, one of the most severe penalties ever imposed on a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Violation of rules in recruiting six prospective football players was cited by the 18-member policy-making council of the NCAA, who hadn't gone more than seven years since the last time the association had imposed a similar punishment on an athlete in NCAA championship competition. The only exception is any tournament that may have been contracted for prior to sanctions imposed Wednesday.

The Bloomington, Ind., school will not be eligible for post-season games. The penalty does not affect Indiana's regular athletic schedule but it will not be permitted to take part in any television football games.

Only Action Taken

Punishment of Indiana was the only action taken at the final session of the four-day council meeting. The group voted against investigating the alleged infractions at the Cotton Bowl game between Texas University and Syracuse. The NCAA had been asked to inquire into reports about unethical conduct, including dirty play and uncomplimentary remarks by players.

An NCAA spokesman said the penalty against Indiana falls in the category of those imposed on Auburn, North Carolina State, and, to a degree on UCLA.

There was no mention of any move to lift probations previously imposed.

Under NCAA rules the maximum assistance a school can offer a prospective athlete is tuition, room and board, books and $15 per month for incidental expenses.

Charges Bonus Offered

The council charged that a bonus of up to $800, plus a monthly payment of $50 to $75 had been offered a Virginia youth by an alumnus of Indiana, working with an assistant football coach.

In another instance it was charged an Ohio athlete was recruited via telephone by a person using the fictitious name of "Dr. Palmer," who identified himself as an Indiana alumnus. It was alleged the student was offered $75 to $100 as a bonus, plus free transportation.

Jim Lemon's Homer Sinks Yankees In Eighth, 5-4

Kaat Scores First Major League Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Big Jim Lemon's three-run homer in the eighth inning Wednesday powered the Washington Senators to a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees who were held to five hits by rookie Jim Kaat and Pedro Ramos.

Southpaw Whitey Ford was sailing along smoothly with a three-hitter and a 4-1 lead until the eighth when the Senators rallied for four runs to hand him his first 1960 defeat.

With one out in the eighth, Billy Gardner bunted safely, advanced to second on Dan Dobbek's infield single and scored. Bob Allison's single, Ford, who hadn't gone more than seven innings all spring, obviously was tiring at this point but manager Casey Stengel elected to let him pitch to one more batter.

The decision proved disastrous. Lemon hopped on Ford's first offering, a breaking ball, and slammed deep into the lower left field stands for his third homer of the year to score Dobbek and Allison ahead of him.

Kaat, credited with his first major league victory, limited the Yankees to three hits, including Bill Skowron's third home run of the season, during the seven innings he pitched. Ramos was nipped for two more singles in the eighth but got Yogi Berra to foul out with the potential tying run on third.

Rookie Don Mincher hit his second homer of the season in the third for the Senators' first run but the Yankees capitalized.

Hobbie Suffers Broken Nose

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cubs pitcher Glen Hobbie suffered a broken nose Wednesday when he was hit during warm-ups before the game with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Hobbie stepped in front of Cal Neeman just as the Cubs catcher prepared to throw the ball. The ball struck Hobbie before it left Neeman's hand and knocked him down.

X-rays showed later that the nose was broken on the left side. A team physician said, however, that Hobbie would be able to pitch in regular turn in about three or four days.

The council charged that a student who was offered a stipend of up to $800, plus a monthly payment of $50 to $75 had been offered a Virginia youth basketball scholarship by a coach at the Indiana University of Indiana, working through an assistant football coach.

In another instance it was charged an Ohio athlete was recruited via telephone by a person using the fictitious name of "Palmer," who identified himself as an Indiana athlete. It was alleged the student was offered to $100 as a bonus, plus free transportation.

Indiana Doesn't Agree With NCAA

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—President Herman B. Wells of Indiana University said Wednesday the university does not agree with the conclusions reached by the National Collegiate Athletic Association in placing the school on a four-year probation for violating rules on recruiting athletes.

"However, the decision was otherwise and we can only bow to the verdict from which there is no appeal and no recourse," Wells added.

Wells said the decision "is a terrible blow and most certainly will affect our athletic program

SHELL

Your car won't tell you it loves Shell gasoline in so many words, of course. But, we believe, after you've driven a few miles on either of Shell's remarkable gasolines you will begin to sense a difference in your car's response. That's because TCP* additive in Shell gasolines neutralizes the deposits which make engines run rough. And as the miles roll by, you'll discover how smooth your engine can run—how far you can go on a gallon. That's your car's way of telling you it appreciates Shell. Houston Open Starts Today, 139 Entered

Palmer Is Favored To Win 6th Title

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — With Arnold Palmer a 4-1 favorite to win his sixth title of the year, a field of 135 pros and 4 amateurs Thursday start the opening round of the $35,000 Houston Golf Classic.

The starters include all the top 34 money winners of the year except Dow Finsterwald and Sam Snead.

Palmer took a vacation after winning the Master championship April 10. He described his game as rusty upon arrival here but promptly turned in a 70 in his first practice round over the 7,122-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course.

Pre-tournament speculation had Palmer's primary competition the next four days coming from Jack Burke Jr., the defending champion, Ken Venturi, the Bing Crosby Invitational winner in January, and big Mike Souchak, the 1955 winner at Memorial.

Burke has not turned up any courses this year but normally plays well before his hometown fans. Since 1950 he has collected $14,263 on the Memorial course where he received much of his early golf training.

A year ago Burke wrapped up $4,300 in top money with a playoff 64 after he and Julius Boros posted 72-hole 277s.

Venturi has never been a winner here but picked up $410 last year with a par 288 and $950 in 1958 with a 296.

Souchak found the drought-stricken Memorial layout to his liking in 1955 and used his power drives effectively on the hard fairways to take home $6,000 with a record 273. Souchak had a practice round 71 Tuesday.

Palmer missed last year's playoff with Burke and Boros as a five-foot putt on the final green failed to drop. A 279 had won him $7,500 here in 1957 with rounds of 67, 72, 71, 69. He ran into trouble while defending last year, however, and was eliminated after posting a 73-79—152 for 36 holes.

A steady rain, the first in several weeks, fell Monday night and left the course in good condition.

Hyndman Visits Everett Today

Coach John Keller's Hyndman High School Hornets will be striving to crash the 500 column in the Bedford County Baseball League when they play Everett on the latter's field today.

The Hornets have won their last two games after dropping the first three and will be out to avenge a 6-5 defeat suffered at the hands of Everett in the opening game of the season.

Patience Rewarded

One of the longest losing streaks in racing history came to an end at old Jamaica on October 29, 1951 when Kader, a five-year-old gelding, staggered home in front after 46 losing efforts. Despite his long losing streak Kader paid only $18.00, probably because his rider was Willie Shoemaker.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: The letter from "Past 45" sparked my first letter to a newspaper.

Granted, some men are ignorant slob who don't know anything about menopause — and care less. But my mother-in-law is the prize example of a woman who's been using it for all its worth ever since I can remember.

She keeps her poor husband hovering over her with a fan in one hand and a shawl in another. When she's too lazy to fix a meal or make a bed she says she's "dizzy from the change."

When she talks out of turn (which is often) she says she's "very nervous from the change."

By contrast, my own mother takes her pills quietly and you never hear a word out of her.

She opens and closes her own windows when she gets a hot flash, never calling attention to herself.

You said an enlightened husband can be a great help. Well, an enlightened woman can help herself a lot, too. Too many women cling to old wives' tales about menopause and think they have to suffer out loud or people won't know they're female.

God grant me the good sense, when I reach this time of life, to be gracious, considerate of others, and to keep my big mouth shut.

—DOUBLE O

DEAR DOUBLE: Thanks for your excellent letter. You are right when you say some women use menopause as a crutch and/or a club. If your mother-in-law has been complaining for 20 years she's a classic example.

The only defense against chronic complainers is a tin ear. It's really quite sad when people must inflict details of their ailments (real or imaginary) on their friends and relatives in order to get attention.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 18 and have never felt like this in all my life. This chick has the nicest personality of anyone I've ever known. Yesterday when I walked home with her I kept dreading the time when we'd reach her house.

This morning I felt light-headed and almost dizzy. Mom asked me if I had a temperature. My heart started to pound when I saw her in the hall and I actually got weak in the knees. I got sort of a tight feeling in my throat and had trouble saying "Hi." Could this be love?

—REX

DEAR REX: It could also be the flu—there's a lot of it around. See a doctor if the symptoms persist.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband teaches music in a small junior college although his major field is English literature. He is not really an authority on music, but people think he is.

Some good friends asked my husband to give an evaluation of their niece's voice. She's 12 and a lovely, bright young girl, but she has trouble carrying a tune. My husband didn't know what to say, so he finally told them as gently as possible, not to spend money on lessons as he didn't think she had any ability.

Now the people are cold to us and we are no longer friends. What should he do if he is asked in the future for his opinion in a similar situation?

—FROZE OUT

DEAR FROZE OUT: These people didn't want an evaluation — they wanted approval. Unfortunately, most friends are like this. In the future suggest your husband say he could not be objective about people he knows, and suggest an evaluation by a stranger.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

MISS BETTY J. STRONG

School Names Car Princess

Another Allegany County High School has selected a representative who will serve as one of the princesses in the court of Mercedes Arellano, daughter of the Spanish ambassador to the United States who will reign as queen of the Cumberland Sports Carnival here May 9-15.

The senior class of Bruce High School, Westernport, has selected Miss Betty Jean Strong to represent their school. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Strong, she is captain of the Bruce cheerleading squad and recently was chosen by vote of the student body as queen of a school event.

The chief activities in which the princesses will take part include a pageant and coronation of the queen at the Queen's Ball at Allegany High School, the Queen's Dinner at the Cumberland Country Club, and a parade through downtown Cumberland.

Scholarship In Memory Of Local Native Started

A scholarship fund in memory of a Cumberland native who died last year has been started in the Department of Poultry at the University of Maryland.

The student aid program is in memory of the late Joseph W. Kinghorn, the first man to graduate from the Maryland Agricultural College specializing in poultry.

He was graduated with the class of 1911 and was one of the most prolific writers in the poultry field. For many years he was secretary-treasurer of the National Poultry Institute and editor of the National Poultry Journal.

The late Mr. Kinghorn was born in Cumberland April 16, 1890, and was a son of William Kinghorn who was a native of London, England, and who was employed in Baltimore in the glass industry. His paternal grandfather was William Kinghorn, of Kinghorn, Scotland.

He was the grandson also of Joseph Farber, who resided here on Maryland Avenue and who worked for R. D. Johnson Milling Company at the turn of the century.

He married the former Edna Hutson of Cumberland in 1913 and the couple lived in Washington for 45 years.

Following his graduation in 1911

Clark Bar Remonstrance Decision Likely By Friday

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners probably will make a decision by Friday on the remonstrance against renewal of the beer license for the Clark Bar, situated on Springdale Street.

Some 12 witnesses were heard by the board in yesterday's hearing, which lasted until about 12:30 p.m.

A group of 33 residents of the neighborhood signed the remonstrance. Mrs. Ruth G. Metz is the operator of the establishment. The remonstrants charge that there have been a number of disturbances at the bar and Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt recounted a hearing he presided over in Police Court last January concerning a disturbance.

The magistrate said that the hearing disclosed that the bartender at the Clark Bar had started the "ruckus." During the fight between two men customers and the bartender a plate glass window was broken and a music machine broken, the magistrate told the board.

George O. Holler, who resides on Springdale Street and operates a soft drink bottling plant nearby, testified he was asleep when he heard the plate glass window break. He went to the scene after being called by a resident next to the bar.

Holler told the board he noticed the police and "paddy wagon" on hand as well as blood on the street and the broken window and music box in the bar. He also explained that Springdale Street is very narrow and a large lot which is across the street from the bar will be posted against parking very soon.

Holler also said that since the January incident there have been no disturbances but that there were a number during the fall shortly after the establishment reopened following a suspension of the license.

Fred Anderson represented the remonstrants while Milton Gerson was attorney for Mrs. Metz.

Other witnesses called by Mr. Anderson were Vernard McKin-

Chicago Grains

Chicago (L.P.)—Old crop May wheat rose to a new crop high on the Chicago board of Trade Wednesday. Other grains moved mostly firm.

At the local market wheat was up $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢; corn off $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢; oats up $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢; soybeans unchanged to up $\frac{1}{4}$ ¢.

Large export sales of wheat, short covering commission house buying pushed the May wheat contract to a new high at 1.04. New crop futures borrowed strength from the old months.

Some selling in wheat followed a report that red wheat sold to Britain for shipment via the Great Lakes would come out of Toledo stocks.

Rain eased in the nearby contracts, but the May wheat were steady. Selling reports were few.

Conlon Says State Parks Plan Delayed

Delegate Wants Problem Probed

Thomas F. Conlon Jr., (D-Allegany) a member of the House of Delegates, expressed his concern yesterday with a report of the Board of Natural Resources and said the State Department of Forests and Parks is not proceeding with park building projects as directed by the General Assembly.

Mr. Conlon's statement follows:

"I noted with interest the article in The Cumberland News of April 26, 1960, on the 15th Annual Report of Natural Resources, and the comments this report contained about the proposed C. & O. Canal Historical Park. I agree that park plans as outlined for development by state funds will not likely become a reality, but for different reasons than have been offered.

Sees Long Delay

"Many persons do not realize that our Department of Forests and Parks has not come to grips with over $1,000,000 of park-building projects for which various sessions of the Maryland General Assembly have appropriated funds. It is obvious then, that development of the areas now in the Canal Park project would be postponed for a generation at the rate with which the Department of Forests and Parks has been moving during the years 1950 to 1958.

"No one could question the fine forestry practiced by this department, but anyone who is interested in travel and recreation, or anyone with a family, can sense the dragging methods followed in park works during the preceding administration, to the point where many feel the department should realistically be called the "Forestry Department," not "Forests and Parks."

Study Scheduled

"A resolution was approved by the 1960 General Assembly calling for a study by the Legislative Council of the reasons for the delays, and as a sponsor of this resolution, it will help me if this study can get reasons for the problem, for I was often asked about it before I became a member of the General Assembly.

"Every citizen interested in the economic welfare of Maryland knows that parks and the travel they bring to our state are important. Therefore, it is amazing to note the delay in the submission of this report.

"The report states that its delayed submission was partly due to inability to secure the parts required of the Department of Forests and Parks and the Department of Research and Education. It is unusual for an official report required by law to be thus delayed by major agencies which are under the Board of Natural Resources; and I feel that future planning of our state's natural resources cannot be carried on under such conditions."

Mrs. J. C. Cobey Dies Suddenly In Frostburg

Mrs. Elizabeth (Earle) Cobey, widow of Dr. James C. Cobey, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at her home, 60 West Union Street, in Frostburg.

A native of Mount Zion, Warren County, Va., Mrs. Cobey was a daughter of the late Captain Alexander M. and Mary E. (Burns) Earle. The Earle family is one of the oldest in Virginia, having settled in Westmoreland County after fleeing England in 1649.

Mrs. Cobey attended Goucher College in Baltimore.

Mrs. Cobey had lived in Frostburg over 58 years, having come to this county following her marriage to Dr. Cobey on November 14, 1901. Dr. Cobey practiced in Frostburg from 1896 until his death in 1940.

Surviving are three sons, W. Earle Cobey, this city; Dr. Milton C. Cobey, Washington, D. C., and James A. Cobey, Merced, Calif.; seven grandchildren and one brother, Paul B. Earle, Boise, Idaho.

Mrs. Cobey had served as president of the Frostburg Red Cross chapter for more than 25 years and was actively interested in the support of Miners Hospital, which her husband had helped establish in 1912. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Frostburg.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. The family will receive friends at the Durs Funeral Home between 7 and 9 o'clock tonight.

The family requests that flowers be omitted and that memorials take the form of contributions to the American Red Cross.

Wiring Blamed For Home Fire

Defective wiring was blamed for a fire yesterday afternoon which caused damage in the basement of a home on U. S. Route 220 about two miles north of the Pennsylvania state line.

Volunteers of Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company, who received a call from Bedford about 1 p. m., said the home was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Welsh and their two small children.

They said the fire ignited clothes hanging in the basement of the two-story frame dwelling. Fruit shelves were scorched by the flames which were extinguished by the housewife who used a garden hose.

Bedford, Pa., volunteers were called first and were en route to the blaze when they learned it was under control. They returned to the fire hall.

Five volunteers from Bedford Road responded to the blaze. One fireman said Mrs. Welsh was fortunate she was not electrocuted when extinguishing the fire because of the defective wires, which were blamed for the blaze.

Local Resident Pictured In 'Battle Of Bulge' Book

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Fifteen winters ago a local soldier, battle-worn from the savage struggle near Bastogne, Belgium, was approached by a photographer anxious to get a picture typical of those men who fought and died in the Battle of the Bulge.

The other day Joseph P. Holmes, 104 Virginia Avenue, finally saw the picture which was taken in the early days of 1945.

It is among 16 pages of pictures in a book entitled, "Battle" — the story of The Bulge — an hour-by-hour reconstruction of the most dramatic and controversial battle of World War II.

The 400-page book was written by John Toland after years of painstaking research, with the points of view of American and German officers and enlisted men, as well as citizens and saboteurs.

For two years Toland followed the trail of the battle, retraced scenes of battle and murder with civilian eyewitnesses and interviewed over 1,000 persons in 10 countries. The book was published by Random House Inc. of New York.

Sgt. Joseph Holmes, a member of a machine gun and mortar section in the 35th Infantry Division, spent 24 days in the thick of battle during the Bulge. Although there was a terrific loss of men, he was not wounded in the famous battle, but was wounded later while fighting in Holland.

Drafted in March 1944, the local GI was overseas a year and a day. On December 8 his unit was pinned down by machine gun fire while they attempted to cross the Saar River in France. For his bravery in helping knock out machine gun nests, Sgt. Holmes earned the Silver Star.

Holmes, who tended bar at Market Tavern, 13 Williams Street, for about 15 years, has been working the past two months at the Z&S Tavern, 523 North Centre Street.

Among others pictured in the book are Generals Omar Bradley, Dwight Eisenhower and George Patton inspecting battle-torn Bastogne; Major General Maxwell Taylor, the commanding general of the 101st Airborne Division congratulating Brigadier General Anthony McAuliffe, temporary commander, who reportedly told the enemy "Nuts" when surrender was demanded.

Also shown are Baron Hasso von Manteuffel, commander of the Fifth Panzer Army of Germany; and Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery and General Matthew Ridgway, XVIII Airborne Corps.

27 Fired B&O Workers Lose $8 Million Suit

Judge Dismisses Damage Action

BALTIMORE (AP)—Chief Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen dismissed Wednesday an 8 million dollar damage suit by 27 former Baltimore and Ohio employees against the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The suits were filed in 1957 against the union after the employees were discharged by the B & O. The railroad was not a party in the case.

The trainmen, 10 from West Virginia and 17 from Maryland, charged that the brotherhood had them fired.

They claimed they were expelled from the brotherhood after they quit paying dues and joined the Union of Railroad Operating Crafts.

The brotherhood then asked the railroad to fire them under a union shop agreement in which all employees had to belong to the brotherhood.

"No Discrimination"

"There was no discrimination, hostile or otherwise in their expulsion" from the brotherhood, Judge Thomsen ruled.

The employees claimed the union shop was invalid because the brotherhood had improperly used dues for political purposes in 1956 and 1957.

Judge Thomsen noted the brotherhood did not disprove this charge, but he held it had no effect on the case before him because the trainmen were dismissed from the union before 1953.

"No dues were used for an improper purpose" while they were members, he said. Therefore, the question of "what effect the alleged improper use of dues money would have on the union shop agreement" is not settled.

Each of the 27 trainmen sued the brotherhood for $100,000 punitive damages and $200,000 compensatory.

Plaintiffs Listed

The suits were filed by Kenneth L. Hosteller, Junior A. Avers, Charles F. Biser, Parent B. Davis and Herbert H. Groves of Keyser, W. Va.; Earl Albertson and Hubert Ball of Ridgeley, W. Va.; Elmer R. Hiett of Levels, W. Va.; Glen W. Strickler of Piedmont, W. Va., and Daniel R. Noble of Wheeling, W. Va.;

Curtis Devibiss of Westernport, Md.; Wallace Avers of McCoole, Md.; Moses Bennett, Joseph Blacker, Marvin Clem, Milton Cochran, Thomas Coughlin, George Jones, Mahlon Leatherman, Harold Legeer, Marilyn Miller, John Raupach, Harley Saville, George Stafford, David Terry, George Thomas and Raymond Ziegler of Cumberland, Md.
